

Content EDA & Insights Report

Movies & TV Shows — Dataset Analysis (~8,800 titles)

Data snapshot: up to 2021 | Prepared with Python & ReportLab

Key Metrics

8,807 Total Titles	6,131 Movies (69.7%)	2,676 TV Shows (30.3%)
748 Countries	2019 Peak Year	TV-M Top Rating

Content Type Split

Netflix's catalog is heavily movie-weighted at 69.7% movies vs 30.3% TV shows. However, TV show additions have grown proportionally faster since 2018, reflecting the platform's binge-watch strategy and investment in serialized originals.

Content type split

Content Added Per Year (2010–2021)

Content additions exploded between 2016 and 2019, peaking in 2019 with over 1,500+ new titles. A visible COVID-related dip appears in 2020–2021 due to production halts.

Top Genres

International Movies and Dramas dominate the catalog. Comedies rank third. Stand-Up Comedy is a distinctly Netflix-flavored category that grew rapidly post-2016.

Content Rating Distribution

TV-MA (36%) and R-rated (14%) together represent ~50% of the catalog, confirming Netflix caters heavily to mature audiences. Family-friendly content (TV-PG, TV-G, G) remains a smaller but growing segment.

Top Producing Countries

The United States leads with ~35% of all titles. India and the United Kingdom are substantial #2 and #3, highlighting Netflix's serious international content investment, especially in South Asian and Korean markets.

Key Insights

Explosive Growth 2015–2019

Netflix added >1,000 titles per year from 2016 to 2019, reflecting a massive push into original and licensed content acquisition.

US Dominates but Not Alone

The US leads with ~35% of titles. India and UK are strong #2 and #3, showing Netflix's international content investment paying off.

Drama Is King International dramas, dramas, and comedies dominate genre tags. Stand-Up Comedy is a notable Netflix original category that has grown fast.	Mature Content Majority TV-MA (36%) + R-rated (14%) = ~50% of catalog is adult content, signaling Netflix primarily targets mature audiences.
COVID Dip in 2020 Additions dropped slightly in 2020–2021 vs the 2019 peak, likely due to pandemic-related production slowdowns worldwide.	TV Shows Are Growing While movies outnumber TV shows 2:1, TV show additions grew proportionally faster post-2018, reflecting the binge-watch strategy.